

It is hard to believe that we are celebrating the first quarter of the school year in the books! Our students have worked very hard and our staff has put in a great deal of time to ensure that our students are the focus of what we do!

Our MS students have headed into basketball and wrestling, and our HS students are wrapping up their various seasons over the next couple of weeks. We will be hosting the first round of playoffs this Friday at the stadium, so hope to see everyone there!

This past Friday a number of our staff were able to take advantage of some quality professional development opportunities as we worked with reading and assessment design. The time spent on developing the teachers' skills is critical to the success of the classroom and the improvement of achievement for students. Teachers take this time to reflect on their practice, evaluate what is working and what could be improved, and work together toward the strategic plan goals. We are grateful for the opportunities we have here in Wyoming to put a priority on professional development.
